

The image shows a vertical stack of 12 rectangular boxes, each representing a list item. Each box is divided into two horizontal sections: a top section with a grey background and a bottom section with a white background. The boxes are arranged in a single column, with a small gap between each one. The overall appearance is that of a list of items, possibly for a form or a document template.